Rome's Tribute To Pope

Amid the imposing splendor of St. Peter's in Rome, and bathed in the glow of many candles, the body of Pope Pius XI lies in state. Around the roped-in area may be seen some of the 400,000 faithful who waited for hours to pay their homage to the Pope of Peace.

Cardinal Is in N. Y. On Way to Rome

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—Reverently greeted by more than a thousand persons, His Eminence William Cardinal O'Connell of Boston arrived here on the S. S. Britannic today on the first part of his voyage to Rome to help choose a new Pope.

Aboard ship he issued his first formal statement since the death of Pope Pius XI.

"A fearless champion of truth and right," His Eminence characterized the late Pontiff.

The Cardinal added: "I am too saddened at a time like this to say much."

SILENT ON NEW POPE

Later, however, at the Hotel Plaza, visitors were able to talk briefly with his eminence.

But when they asked him which cardinal was likely to be the next Pope, he replied:

"That's a very delicate subject and we cannot say anything about it. All I could say in connection with the conclave is that duty calls and we must go. We are like an army on the march."

The cardinal said he received word in Nassau of the Pope's death within a short time after it occurred, explaining:

"The news came early in the morning. We were fortunate in having a ship in the harbor. We prepared very quickly and went aboard at 8 a. m., staying there quietly until the ship sailed for New York."

In excellent health, America's dean of cardinals spoke in crisp

80,000 Stand in Rain to View The Pontiff; Funeral Tomorrow

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 13 (INS)—Giving promise that the multitudes of the faithful who pay last tribute before the body of Pope Pius XI will have been swollen to more than 400,000 by nightfall, 80,000 mourners at a time scorned personal discomfort today to stand in a chill rain outside St. Peter's.

As the wet throngs moved slowly past with mumbled prayers in the vast dimness of the basilica, the congregation of cardinals proceeded with tradition-bound measures which will end, probably after March 1, with choice of a new Pope.

Thirty-three cardinals were present at today's congregation, the third held since the death of Pius. Then the commission of three cardinals appointed to handle details of the conclave at which the next pontiff will be chosen held another session.

In the half-darkness of St. Peter's, above the shuffle of the mourners' feet the second of the nine funeral masses for the Pope was intoned by Archbishop Pisani before the main altar in the nave.

STANDING IN THE RAIN

Outside in the downpour, closely herded by police and troop reinforcements, an uncomfortable but patient, never-grumbling crowd moved forward inch by inch. The queues stretched along the Via Della Conciliazione and across St. Peter's square from the basilica to the bridge of St. Angelo—a distance of nearly half a mile. Some had umbrellas and raincoats, but many had no protection from the rain. Many tried to protect themselves with newspapers, but the paper soon became sodden and useless. Virtually all carried lunch packages, since they were prepared to wait four or five hours before entering the basilica.

St. Peter's, it was announced, will be closed at noon tomorrow to

CARDINAL O'CONNELL IN TRIBUTE TO POPE PIUS, 'MAN OF GOD'

In measured words of solemn dignity, Boston's own William Cardinal O'Connell, dean of America's Roman Catholic hierarchy, today issued his first formal statement since the death of Pope Pius XI. It was given to newspaper reporters by his eminence on the S. S. Britannic at New York. It follows in full:

The Church has lost a fearless champion of truth and right. His (Pope Pius') whole life as a Supreme Pontiff was one of forthright courage. He told me once several years ago that he never knew what fear meant. That was exemplified when, as a young priest on summer vacations, he would climb the highest of the Italian Alps.

That quality of mind and character was his outstanding mark. In a world troubled as it is today, it was a blessing of God that we had him for a source of strength.

His forward honesty of dealing with nations was based, not on a policy of mere chance, but upon principle. That was the guidance in all his actions.

His later years were of intense, but very patient, suffering. He undertook every day the task before him and carried that principle right to the very end.

He was really, in the most literal sense, a man of God.

WPA Begins Purge Of Workers on Bay State Relief Roll

Moving unexpectedly, the federal Works Progress Administration today began a purge of its relief roll in Massachusetts, the Boston Evening American learned.

A special corps of 200 investigators, each sworn in by a notary public, are engaged in the work which, when completed, is expected to see several thousand WPA workers dropped in this state.

Every one of the approximately 129,000 men and women on the WPA rolls throughout the state will be investigated, it was admitted by Colonel John J. McDonough, state administrator.

CHECK ALL WORKERS

The checkup will go into their homes and is designed to learn how many of the WPA workers are actual "worthy cases" under the WPA regulations.

According to Colonel McDonough, his investigators, themselves drawn from a special list, will seek particularly to learn if the WPA worker has dependents, if he has the number of dependents declared on his application and if he is holding another job or has any other source of income not reported.

It is the most sweeping investigation of WPA rolls ever conducted here.

Reports have come to state headquarters at 600 Washington street, it was learned, that some workers throughout the state are not in actual need, and some others are holding additional jobs. It has also been reported that still others have claimed to have more dependents than in actuality and that, in a few cases, workers not in need have been attached to the rolls through political pull.

WILL ACT ON FRAUDS

George H. Cottell, director of employment at WPA headquarters, is in charge of the survey, demanded by Washington as a result of the Senate's action in slashing $150,000,000 in WPA relief funds from President Roosevelt's budget.

Part of this slash is expected to be handed on to Massachusetts. For this month and for March this state has its regular allotment for 120,000 WPA workers, but what the appropriation will be in April cannot be estimated yet, according to officials.

Meanwhile, for every WPA worker purged as a result of the check-up, another worker will be installed in his or her place.

Bette Davis Puts Cod in Hollywood New England Style

Codfish Cakes in Hollywood is the story of Bette Davis. It is the story of how a New England girl, apparently without great talent or great distinction, became one of the greatest of Hollywood stars, Academy award winner, famous beyond her wildest dreams, richer than she ever believed possible . . . But more important, it is the story of one close to the hearts of millions of people, who have laughed, and thrilled, and wept with her in countless screen plays . . .

She's all New England, this girl, as Yankee as the codfish cakes she insists on having for breakfast in her Hollywood dream castle . . .

CHAPTER I

Grandmother Favor knew all the sweet, secret places in cool marsh-lands where could be found the first violets of spring . . .

She knew the best grassy hilltops in New Hampshire, drenched in sun and whipped by the west wind, where one could lie for long hours watching the march of white, billowy clouds. She knew where the far-off hills were bluest, and she knew where the salt-sea spray whipped off the white-caps at the seashore . . .

And in drowsy summer days she knew exactly how to help one pass the long hours in the orchard beside the old house in Lowell. But winter was the most fun when, before the roar of a fire, she'd read "Snowbound" out loud to the beat of a nor'easter against the clapboards.

Like a bird, she was, always in movement. She seemed to ripple rather than walk, and to be with her was to be strangely content, but no one ever could reason why.

And if Bette Davis seems to flutter like a lovely bird sometimes now in her world of shadows it is because of Grandmother Favor, too, because she was one of

And if, on occasion, she stamps her little feet, her eyes flashing, her throaty voice strident in rage, it is because of Grandmother Favor, too, because she was one of

POISON PEN PLOT ON THREE BARED

A series of "poison pen" letters and cards sent to three prominent citizens, one a priest, came to light today when a file in the case was turned over by state police to federal authorities.

JOSEPHINE THURLOW
Victim of "Poison Pen"

Targets of the attacks were Rev. Otto E. Kelly of St. John's Seminary, Brighton; Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, noted psychiatrist and author of the "Briggs law," and Miss Josephine E. Thurlow, for many years superintendent of nurses at Cambridge Hospital.

The attacks were made during August, September and October of 1937, when all three were serving as members of a special state commission studying the problem of mental diseases.

Investigation of the case was made at the time by state police and federal postal authorities.

The inquiry soon narrowed the list of suspects down to two. No definite evidence could be found to convict either.

Father Kelly and Dr. Briggs subsequently resigned from the commission. The former explained his resignation was in protest against appointment of Dr. Clifford D. Parkins as head of the mental diseases department without consultation with the commission.

Dies Probers Aid in Drive On Reds in Schools Here

Backed by members of the Dies investigating committee in Congress, and stoutly supported by tens of thousands of taxpayers here, Boston's city council and school committee today started their double-edged campaign against Red activities in the public schools.

GAVE ALARM—This six-week-old infant's choking from smoke aroused three persons in a fire in a house in Auburn-dale avenue, West Newton. The baby, Janet Kochenderfer, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kochenderfer.

Probe Torch Death Of Army Officer

COLUMBUS, Ga., Feb. 13 (INS)—The victim's identity remained unknown for several hours after he had been found near Phoenix City, Ala. until established by dental records.

Councillor William J. Galvin is expected to resume his attack on Joseph Lee of the school committee when the city council meets today.

He said he and those associated with him would offer positive proof of Communist tendencies among certain groups having access to the schools.

The same matter will be gone into when the school committee meets tonight and considers, among other things, an ordered report by Superintendent Arthur L. Gould, who has been delving beneath the surface in an effort to get at the truth.

Part of his report, it is anticipated, will deal with the sub rosa investigations of Inspector Benjamin Goodman and Inspector William Goulston of the "radical squad" of the Boston police department.

Impetus was given to the dual investigation by disclosure that Washington has been taking a hand, very quietly.

Dies committee probers, insisting on an incognito, have been turning over evidence of subversive activities in the schools.

Councillor Maurice H. Sullivan of Brighton, author of the council probe, promised fireworks at today's meeting.

He described the Reds as employing "bureaucratic" tactics, insisted they had not made great headway, but were gaining converts. He denounced liberals of radical tendency.

golf and maybe a few other things if I have the time."

Reporters asked Mickey how he's dodging Cupid's dart.

"These stories about my being engaged are silly," he said. "I have several girls I go dancing with—well, scouts—but my only steady girl is my mom!"

Kill Fore River Company Union

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (INS)—The Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Ltd., was ordered by the National Labor Relations Board today to abolish its Fore River and Boston plants' employee representation plan, and to stop discouraging membership in the CIO-affiliated Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America.

The board also directed the company to hold an election among its production, maintenance and stockroom workers to determine if they want to be represented in collective bargaining by the Marine and Shipbuilding Workers' Union.

The company was ordered to post notices of compliance in its plants, and to notify the regional NLRB director in Boston of its action within the next ten days.

William H. Collins, general manager at Fore River, said today he had received notice from the National Labor Relations Board that it had reached a decision, but no details were given.

The letter stated that a copy of the decision has been sent direct to the Bethlehem Shipbuilding attorneys in New York.

Catholics Open War On Racy Literature

PORT WAYNE, Ind., Feb. 13 (AP)—The national organization for decent literature is being formed in the Catholic church to stop circulation of racy books, magazines and pictures.

Bishop John F. Neill of Port Wayne, chairman of the national committee on indecent literature, said the organization campaign has started in all churches.

'Butterfly Girl' Death Suspect Is Arrested

LONDON, Feb. 13 (AP)—A young engineer with an Irish name faced a murder charge today after police discovered the stiletto-slashed body of a Mayfair playgirl in her luxurious flat.

Arthur James Mahoney, 23, was ordered held for hearing on Feb. 21 on a charge of killing the girl, Georgina Hoffman, 26, variously known as "The Black Butterfly," "The Girl in Red," and Mary Iris Heath, or Donnelly.

Charges against Mahoney were filed after long police questioning and discovery of a blood-stained stiletto and knife in his dingy Brickton home.

Scotland Yard men had investigated the possibility she had been stabbed as a betrayer of sabotage secrets of the Irish Republican Army. A mysterious telephone call to her disclosed the crime. They told to go to the girl's address in a Dover street, Mayfair.

heart of fashionable London—and there they found her scantily-clad body. She had been stabbed several times and there were bruises on her throat.

Police sought a man with whom she was seen Saturday, the day she attended an Irish-English rugby match in London. In her flat was a rosette of green and white Irish colors she had worn at the game.

Because of fears of explosions at the game, detectives mingled with the crowds, on the lookout for suspicious parcels. Persons newly arrived from Ireland also were inspected closely at docks and railway stations.

Detectives took photographs of the room and the body, which lay face downward on the floor. The girl had rented the fashionable flat a fortnight ago. Neighbors were able to give police little information about her.

Miss Gladys Holland, 27, of Washington street, Dorchester, clerk at the Kando confectionery store, will be one of the witnesses at the trial of the youths. She was robbed of $45.

Hurley 'Scandals' Probe Demanded

"Hurricane, racing and pardon scandals in the closing days of the Hurley administration ought to be investigated," Rep. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware told a legislative committee today.

Speaking on his order for such an investigation, Sawyer said:

"There were so many cozy deals, so many side-door meetings, so much secrecy during the last three months of the Hurley administration that the public is suspicious and wants the lid taken off."

"LAME DUCK" EVILS

"This is not a political matter. Both the Republican and Democratic parties should be interested in cleaning up this mess. This was a lame duck period, a time when the lame ducks laid their bad eggs, hatched their cunning and reaped their harvest."

"Governor Ely hated his incoming successor, James M. Curley, and entered deals with his Republican council to grab off jobs and preempt Governor Curley's patronage."

"Hurley and his Republican council carried the trading to the limit. Pardons for thugs, crooked contracts, deals in the racing situation—these followed one another in quick succession."

"HURRICANE OF SCANDAL"

"A Democratic governor and a Republican council left us a hurricane of scandal into which we must dig to avert a similar situation in future."

Chairman Ralph W. Robart of the parole board and P. Emmett Gavin, a member, were called and both favored an investigation of pardons in the closing days of the Hurley administration.

Asked whether Gov. Hurley had made the parole board a mere rubber stamp, Robart replied:

"Yes, indeed."

Referring to the much-discussed pardon of Raymond Patriarca, Gavin declared:

"With all this talk about Patriarca, had as he is, there were several others pardoned who were worse."

The committee took the investigations under advisement.

Tobin Partly O. K.'s Atlantic Ave. Autoway

Mayor Tobin today, in a message to the city council, gave tentative approval to a legislative bill for removal of part of the Atlantic avenue elevated structure, to construction of an overhead motor highway and to some street widenings.

The bill has been filed in the Legislature by the Division of Metropolitan Planning, but before it can be considered by the Ways and Means Committee it must have approval of the mayor and council.

Tobin said in his message that he was not ready to give formal approval of the plan in its entirety, but he deems it advisable for a measure to be put before the Legislature "in the fullest possible discussion."

The bill provides for removal of the elevated structure in Commercial street, Atlantic avenue, Beach street and Harrison avenue and construction of an overhead highway from a point in Albany street to Atlantic avenue, to Clinton street, Cross street, over Haymarket square to Merrimack street, to Lowell street and down to grade again over a ramp.

Also the bill provides for widening of Dover street and Berkeley street from Beacon street to a connection with embankment road.

Accuse Five In Picture Sale

Pictures in a movie magazine, allegedly indecent, caused warrants to be issued in municipal court today against five Boston news dealers.

Judge F. Delano Putnam was told the magazine was bought by high school boys and girls, and other minors, and that discussion among the children had brought the offending pictures to police attention.

Lieutenant James V. Crowley and Inspector Thomas Conaty, who obtained the warrants, said they had heard giggling girls and boys talking about the magazine.

"We dropped around to a couple of news stands," Crowley said, "and heard mere children come in and ask for the magazine with the pictures. They didn't even know which one it was."

Crowley said other Boston news dealers were cooperating in removing the magazine from the stands. The warrants are returnable February 21.

Mooney Taken Ill, Facing Operation

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 13 (INS)—Tom Mooney, labor leader recently pardoned by the governor of California after he had served a long prison term for the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombings, was ill in Los Angeles today and faced an operation.

Mooney was suffering from a recurrence of an illness that nearly proved fatal while he was in San Quentin Prison—a gall bladder attack complicated by stomach ailments.

Excitement is all right in its place, but the Robert E. Duggans of Corey place in Everett could use a little peace and quiet for a while.

FIVE YEARS FOR GUN AGENT

Despite pleas from his sobbing wife, who begged for leniency, George J. Silverman, of Eldon street, Dorchester, convicted of renting pistols to young bandits, was sentenced today to serve from five to seven years in Norfolk prison.

The sentence was pronounced by Judge William A. Burns. Silverman nearly collapsed when it was ordered.

The sentence temporarily nullifies a three-year term Silverman was serving at Deer Island for issuing bad checks.

Although convicted on two counts of acting as an accessory before the fact of an armed robbery and on one of accessory after the fact, he was sentenced only on one count, the other two being placed on file.

Silverman was convicted on testimony of two members of the so-called "Gray Glove Gang" of youthful bank robbers, who are now serving from 12 to 20 years for robbery of the East Milton branch of the Milton Savings Bank.

In the past few days, Joan, the three-year-old, was taken away to the Whidden Memorial Hospital to be treated for bronchial pneumonia.

Bobby, 11, was injured in a coasting accident.

Affairs of the Duggans reached a grand climax when twins were born, bringing the roster of the Duggan children to an even dozen. Papa Duggan, a painter, employed by the WPA, is 40. His wife is 35.

Newest arrivals at the populous Duggan home are Thomas, a blond boy weighing nine pounds, four ounces, and Theresa, a placid brunette weighing eight pounds.

Duggan, in addition to his WPA duties, helps his wife manage the little colony. In the Duggan principality, each child has his or her duties to perform, and performs them. Some sell papers, other run errands, dust or sweep, help dress and discipline the younger Duggans.

CHARGE 100 CABS ON ROAD ILLEGALLY

A taxi scandal of major proportions loomed today at police headquarters, when it was learned that 100 drivers are on the road without police hackney licenses.

Police Superintendent Edward W. Fallon immediately called on Captain Frank McNabb, head of the hackney division, to investigate.

It was pointed out that riders in these cabs might have no redress in case of accident.

The situation resulted from the rush for licenses following installation of the open-stand rule. Investigation of an application for a license usually takes 10 days. In the rush word got around that applicants would not have to wait this long for their licenses before being allowed to drive.

Most of the 100 are new men, and have never been checked for character, criminal record, or indisposition, it was stated.

—And Everybody Was Happy

HE'LL FORGET YOU SOON, MOTHER

This is to let you know, little mother, that your plan is working out just as you wanted . . .

They took your son, the baby boy you abandoned in a Waltham automobile a week ago Saturday, down to the State Public Welfare Department today, and that's another step in your scheme to get him adopted so that never, so long as he lives, will he know that you're his mother.

They'll look over his fingerprints and his footprints at the state de-

Waltham Public Welfare Bureau. There won't be any difficulty about that. And then he'll be gone forever. You'll never know who gets him. He'll never know about you. You see, it's working out pretty well . . .

August Hanlon, who found the child in the garage in Taylor street, after you'd left him in Bernard Sherry's car, thinks a lot of him. And so does Sherry. They live next door to each other at 104 and 106 Cushing street, and they share the garage.

Everybody at the baby hospital loves him. He's put on weight, too, and that freckle on his little hand is all cleared up.

Well, he's pretty nearly gone now, little mother . . . are you sorry?

Remember THOSE YOU LOVE-BY TELEPHONE

Sweethearts, mothers, friends; everyone likes to be remembered. It's thrilling when your remembrance comes by telephone.

There's pleasure for two in an out-of-town call that's almost as real as the pleasure of a personal visit. The cost is surprisingly small.

This Valentine's Day, reach across the miles and into the hearts of those you love — by telephone.

KNOW HOW THRIFTY OUT-OF-TOWN RATES ARE?
Centralized research by Bell Telephone Laboratories and centralized manufacture by Western Electric Company have helped to make your telephone service the finest and the cheapest in the world. You can telephone out-of-town points for less than you expect. Evenings after 7 and all day Sunday surprisingly cheap rates are in effect.

Congress Halts To Honor Pius

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (INS)—For the first time in the nation's history the two Houses of Congress met in brief session today to express official sorrow at the death of Pope Pius XI and then adjourned to tribute the "Pope of Peace."
Never before has Congress observed a mourning day in such the presence of the press. Only the death of five rulers—Queen Victoria, King George V and King Edward VII of Great Britain, Alfred, Duke of Saxe-Coburg and the assassinated President James A. Garfield—have the House and Senate adjourned in mourning.

Knights of Columbus Plan Homage to Pope

WORCESTER, Feb. 13 (AP)—State Deputy John J. Spillane of the Knights of Columbus today took steps for elaborate homage to the Homage Pope Pius XI by which all of the 43,000 members will be asked in the last few minutes, rosaries and other spiritual offerings for repose of his soul.
In addition, all activities of the 16 councils in this state will be halted tomorrow when the Pope will be buried. Councils will be asked to arrange immediately for masses for repose of his soul.

Capital in Mourning For George Holmes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (INS)—The national capital—President Roosevelt, its highest officials and down to the cub reporter—mourned today the passing of a newspaperman.

George Holmes, 41, was killed by a car in New York City last night. He was a well-known newspaperman and a close friend of President Roosevelt. Holmes was a member of the Washington Bureau of the International News Service, which he joined in 1911. He was a native of New York City and had been in Washington for many years. He was a very popular man and was known for his courage and integrity. He was killed while crossing the street near the White House. The President and many other officials attended his funeral today.

W. R. Hearst Pays Tribute

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 13 (INS)—William Randolph Hearst paid tribute to George R. Holmes, head of the Washington Bureau of the International News Service, who died yesterday. Mr. Hearst declared: "I am greatly grieved to hear of the death of George R. Holmes. He has always contributed greatly to journalistic standards of honesty, accuracy and enterprise. He has been able and devoted to his duty. In serving his papers conscientiously, he has served the public loyally."

KANE ASKS STRIKE OF TAXPAYERS

A SENATE SENATOR, Mr. Kane, today asked the House of Representatives to pass a bill which would allow taxpayers to strike if the government failed to pay them. He said that the government had failed to pay many taxpayers for a long time and that this was a very serious situation. He said that the taxpayers had no other way to get their money and that they were forced to live on credit. He said that the government was responsible for this and that it was time for the taxpayers to strike.

"It is a club which will put a quick stop to the chislers and fakery," he declared. "A sit-down by taxpayers would work miracles if taxpayers would work in unison and it is not beyond the realm of possibility."

The bill would allow taxpayers to strike if the government failed to pay them for a period of 30 days. It would also allow them to strike if the government failed to pay them for a period of 60 days. The bill would also allow them to strike if the government failed to pay them for a period of 90 days.

A sit-down will bring about a slash in both municipal and governmental spending quicker than any other way," he added. "Just as long as taxes are promptly paid into treasuries, just as long will unnecessary personnel remain on the public payroll."

Roosevelt Nearly Free of Grippe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (INS)—President Roosevelt is nearly free of grippe, it was learned today. He has been in bed for several days but is now able to get up and move around. He is still feeling weak but is expected to be back to his normal health in a few days.

900 FLEE SCHOOL FIRE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (INS)—A fire broke out in a school building in Washington today, forcing 900 children to flee. The fire started in a classroom and spread quickly. The children were evacuated safely and the fire was extinguished within a few minutes.

10 Seek Dowd's Council Seat

Various members of the Boston City Council today announced their intention to run for the seat of the late Mayor James M. Dowd. There were ten candidates in all. The candidates were: [List of names]. The election will be held in May.

Celebrities?—Well, could be.

The young miss on the left set to spin a little ice bears the name of Mary Favorite, but if she wouldn't pass for vivacious Katharine Hepburn . . . Well . . . In my book anyway . . . And the little lady on the right all set and ready says her name is Ann Clarke . . . Now, who does that remind you of? Picture was snapped at Brae Burn Country Club.

A GREAT NOVEL

LOVE AND GOLD ABANDON TULLY

CHAPTER 20

Petra Brent offered to have the maid call to see when Mr. Gann would be home. She did not expect to see him again.

"I wouldn't take the money," Tully said. "You would have to give it to me in a private and personal way."

"I should be sorry to see you go," she said. "I know I'm a fool and you're a foolish man, but I'd like to see you again. You're the only man I've ever loved."

Petra looked a little disappointed when she spoke.

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

STILL IN LOVE, Petra Gann fails to suspect extent of Mr. Cinderella's financial losses. Looking affectionately into his eyes, she demands he tell her the whole story. In the picture, William F. Hubbard of Lynn, Academie Moderne instructor poses as Mr. Cinderella; Miss Louise Loring of Arlington, as Petra Gann.

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

"I'm not a fool," she said. "I'm a woman who knows what she wants. I want you. I want you to be my husband. I want you to be my love. I want you to be my everything."

NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (INS).—It's no secret that actual business performance in the United States since January 1st has been less rosé than the first of the year forecasts.

Maritime Prospects
Are Bright

The American merchant marine is under way to make a forward step in the progress of the American merchant marine.

Prospect is for the return of the American flag to a place upon the seas commensurate with our country's position as a world power and the benefits in many ways the commission said.

Markets Close

NEW YORK, Feb. 13, AP.—New York and Boston stock markets closed with a gain today on a report of trade and most commodity prices and a recovery in the money market.

Recovery in the money market was the New Orleans cotton exchange, the Chicago and New York livestock markets, Savannah naval stores, and Boston wire futures.

All European and Canadian markets were open.

German Barter With U.S. Seen

The possibility of a barter system between Germany and the United States is being discussed by officials of the American government.

KID MCCOY'S OWN STORY

Back from South Africa, Kid McCoy is encumbered by his wife, Lottie, and by Lizzie, the beautiful barmaid, who has followed him. Lizzie finally goes to England and Lottie agrees to a divorce.

McCoy easily defeats Dick O'Brien, using the corkscrew punch for the first time. He tells how the blow got its name.

In Richmond, Ind., where he was discovered by Jack Rush when he drifted into town, a kid hobo, McCoy is given a public ovation which greatly moves him.

Life is now at its zenith for the young boxer. He has freedom, money, hosts of admirers, and is sought after by beautiful women. Kid McCoy is now employed by Henry Ford.

LOVE, AND A FIGHT

Shortly after my return from South Africa I signed up with Duncan B. Harrison's theatrical venture, a melodrama called "The Pacific Mail," appearing in the Grand Opera House, in Brooklyn. Miss Jessie Wood, a New York critic, said: "The Pacific Mail," by Paul Potter, being acted in Brooklyn, is a remarkable drama, containing a shipwreck and ship's concert, both of them very sad calamities, always.

Mr. K. I. M. McCoy appears only for about an hour, but he is the shining star of the show and withstanding. He is quite pretty enough to make a very presentable walking man. Mr. Kid has the appearance of a sport, but not a sport with any real on his hair. He has none of the King of the Ring attitude and attitude. He is of the type of a man who is a very happy and good, that must be the cause for his popularity. Mr. Kid is a very happy and good, that must be the cause for his popularity. Mr. Kid is a very happy and good, that must be the cause for his popularity.

purse. I want that lucky, and maybe it was just as well.

Tommy Ryan was clamoring for a return match, and after a lot of buckering I agreed to meet him in Syracuse, his home town, at the Prince Athletic Club, early in September, 1907. His insistence on picking Syracuse for the scene of the fight irritated me because I knew we could make more money

100 Years of Baseball

BROOKLYN-N. Y. FEUD
ORIGINATED BACK
IN 1858---MERCER

(Organized Baseball is making elaborate preparations for the centennial celebration of the founding of a purely American outdoor sport that has progressed through amazing stages of evolution to become the most soundly governed professional game in the world. At the end of 100 years, it is still expanding and is firmly entrenched as the greatest American game for boys to play and men to watch. It is a sport that blankets the entire country for six months in every year and intrigues millions of patrons. The history of this game will be told briefly in a series of articles by Sid Mercer, baseball writer for the Hearst Newspapers and the International News Service.)

By SID MERCER

CHAPTER II
The Knickerbocker Club

In a year or two Doubleday's game began to expand. The first record of it in New York City is dated 1842, when a group of young sportsmen began to gather on week-ends, doff their coats and play in rather sedate fashion on a lot that later was the site of old Madison Square Garden in 27th st.

In 1845 one of this group, Alexander J. Cartwright, organized a "baseball club" as a social and sports body. Thus, the Knickerbocker Club was formed to compete against other groups. The growth of the city forced the club up to Murray Hill and, eventually, the favorite field for baseball was Hoboken. The Knickerbockers adopted the Elysian Fields there as their home grounds, drew up rules, had a period of practice and issued a challenge.

The first match game was with the "New York Club," a pickup team, which was defeated, 23 to 1.

in four innings, the rules stipulating that the team scoring 21 "aces" or better was the winner.

No uniforms were worn in this game, and not until 1849 did the Knickerbockers appear in natty outfits consisting of blue woolen pants, white flannel shirts and straw hats. Caps were not substituted for the straw until 1850.

Competition for the Knickerbockers sprang up quickly. The Washingtons of Yorkville were the first challengers. In June, 1851, the first game resulted in a 21-11 defeat for the Washingtons. Two weeks later they dropped another by a score of 22 to 20, the game going ten innings under the rule that the winning team must be the first to score 21 or more "aces." The Washingtons reorganized in 1852 under the name of the Gotham Club and, in June of that year, banded the Knickerbockers their first defeat by a score of 21 to 16, the game going 16 innings. Four clubs were playing in New York by the end of 1854.

BIRTH OF A FEUD

Brooklyn entered the field that year, but not until 1858 was the spark touched off to fire a New York-Brooklyn baseball feud that blazes to this day.

A convention was held in New York that year, with 25 clubs in the metropolitan district represented, and the National Association of Baseball Players was formed, with a membership of 16 clubs.

Two "all-star" teams from New York and Brooklyn, then separate municipalities, helped to popularize the sport in a series of games at the Fashion Race Course on Long Island. To furnish funds needed for the upkeep of the association, an admission fee of 50 cents was charged.

For the first game played with "gate," 1500 "kranks" turned out on July 20, 1858, to root for their teams. The players were attired in long pants, fancy blouses and wide peaked caps. The umpire wore a silk hat and frock coat, sported sideburns and carried a cane. He gravely announced "Play ball, gentlemen." With the word "gentlemen" later omitted, that was the slogan with which umpires started games up to recent years.

N. Y. WINS OPENER

The New Yorks smashed out a victory by a score of 22 to 18. In the second game, more than a month later, Brooklyn won, 29 to 8, before a larger crowd. Evidently the last inning was a rout for New York pitchers. The third and deciding contest was a New York triumph, 29 to 18.

Thus was born a baseball rivalry that has grown from three games a season to 22 between the Giants and Dodgers—and the spirit is still the same. Meanwhile Alexander Cartwright had joined the gold rush to California in 1849. He was baseball's first ardent missionary, carrying the new game to the Pacific Coast and later to Honolulu. The Middle West, sparsely settled, had not yet adopted baseball. It spread rapidly, however, along the Atlantic seaboard.

CREDITORS FIRST 'ACE'

Every city and town had its team, but it was still amateur baseball. The Excelsiors of Brooklyn went out on the first baseball tour in 1860, playing in central and western New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware.

Pitching was restricted to the underhand delivery, but in that year James Creighton, Excelsior pitcher, introduced the wrist twist, which fooled many batsmen. He was the first outstanding pitcher.

("100 Years in Baseball" in tomorrow's Boston Evening American will tell of the organization of amateur and semi-professional teams.)

Auker Thankful for Injury

Submarine Style
Easy on Arm

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 13 (AP)—Elden Auker, Boston Red Sox's new pitcher, figures the luckiest break of his career was a college football injury which makes him throw a baseball with an underhand delivery.

Looking over the list of major league hurlers with sure arms, the tall right-hander was inclined today to be thankful for his unusual style.

"I believe I throw with less strain than nearly any pitcher in the league," he declared. "When you think about it, it's a lot more natural to throw underhand than overhand."

"If you don't believe it, just watch a kid when he gets his first ball. It uses an underhand swing."

ELDEN AUKER

In his sophomore year at Kansas State College, Auker received a fractured shoulder in football practice.

The shoulder was hurt two or three times afterwards, and he found he could not throw overhand as he had done while pitching for the freshman and semi-pro teams.

He switched to a side arm delivery which served well through college. But when Auker joined the Decatur club of the three-league after graduation, Bob Coleman, the manager and a scout for Detroit, told him to use the submarine ball.

Auker, here for three weeks of golf before spring training starts, is glad Detroit traded him this winter to Boston.

"In the first place," he said, "those Red Sox led the league in hitting last year, and they've just about got the power to make the Yankees man for man. In the second place, I won't have to pitch to Roger Cramer."

"That Cramer is one of the hardest men in baseball to get out. It seemed as if every time I faced him as a Tiger he spent the afternoon on the bases. I'm glad to get on his side."

Exeter Six
Faces Rival
Wednesday

The favored Exeter Academy hockey team, due for its 25th annual meeting with Andover at the Garden on Wednesday afternoon, will put its trust in the Sloane twins, Bill and Jim.

The youngsters are this year's co-captains as well as the high scorers of the team. Jim is the top man with 11 goals and three assists, while brother Bill has nine goals and has assisted on four others.

Between them they have scored half of the goals the Exeter club has amassed this winter. Both of them are veterans and are playing their third and last year under Coach Percy Rogers.

The only local boys performing for the Red and Gray are Morgan from Cambridge, who is right wing on the second line, and Young Charlie Cowen, ex-Newton high luminary, a spare defense man. Coach Dick Knight reveals that he will depend upon his rugged defense to halt the Rogersmen. In Captain Al Foster and Stew Friddy, Knight has a pair of hard body checkers who can slow the Exeter first line down, if they are enjoying a good day.

For relief the Andover mentor will depend on Junior Welsh and Jim Kittredge, both football stars. They make up what they lack in ability, in their willingness to "rough it up." The Andover record for the year shows but very few goals scored against them.

All-Star Fight
Card Thursday

The greatest array of fistie talent ever banded together under one tent, at popular prices, is the fighting show for the Argonne Thursday night at Mechanics Building.

In the opening 10 rounder, Tiger Warrington, the champion of Halifax, Canada meets his toughest assignment when he crawls through the ropes to battle Dominic Ceccarelli, light heavyweight champion of Italy.

In the second ten rounder, Pat Foley, Worcester's fighting Irishman who has won his last 22 swaps punches with John Caballo, sensational Puerto Rican lightweight recent conqueror of Ginger Foran, leading English contender. The semi-windup ten rounder will bring together two of New England's outstanding welterweights, the Cocoa Kid, the real welterweight champion of New England, and "Buster" Carroll, the pride of Lowell.

The wind-up and feature event will bring together Honey Melody, the N. E. lightweight champion, and Abe Denner the challenger, Denner, who hails from the West End, and Melody, who hangs up his hat in Charlestown, have posted a $200 forfeit each.
